AMERICA AND THE EXCLUSION OF CHINESE.
A large gathering of influential and prominent Chinese merchants and members of the gentry met on May 10th at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce (Shanghai), to discuss and protest against the terms of the proposed new Chinese Exclusion Treaty which, H. K. Liang Ching, K.O.M.G., Chinese Minister at Washington, refused to sign. The U. S. Charge d'Affaires at Peking was instructed, in consequence, by the U. S. State Department to have the Treaty concluded and signed in the Chinese capital. It appears that the clauses in the proposed new Treaty are even more severe than the old one which expired last December, for whereas the former restrictions referred to the labouring classes alone, the new includes Chinese of all classes who may desire to enter United States territory. There was much fiery rhetoric and eloquent appeals to patriotism by the speakers who addressed the meeting with the result that it was decided to telegraph at once to the Waiwangs, and Viceroy, Yuan Shih-kai and Chou Fu, to oppose the conclusion and signing of the proposed Treaty as it now stands. It was also unanimously decided by those present to cease purchasing or contracting for American goods until the terms of the proposed Treaty be modified and made to meet the requirement of justice. In regard to this it was further decided to telegraph to merchants' guilds throughout the whole Empire the reason for this boycott of American goods, and to request one and all to join the Shanghai merchants in this matter.

A LONG TELEGRAPH LINE.

The longest land line in the world worked from end to end without repetition is that connecting England with Tehran. The line crosses the North Sea from Lowestoft to Emden in Germany, passes through Berlin, Warsaw, Odessa, along the shore of the Black Sea to Tiflis. It was found in 1897 that the business was becoming so large that the ordinary Morse instruments were insufficient, and the Wheatstone automatic system was installed on the portion between Odessa and Tiflis. At that time there were two repeating stations between London and Tehran namely, Odessa and Emden. In this Wheatstone system the message is first punched on a tape, the holes representing the letters in a similar way to the Morse alphabet. The tape is then drawn through the sending apparatus, and movements are produced in pins over which the tape passes, which in their turn make the circuits, and cause the currents to flow, and the message is printed off at the receiving station in a similar way to the ordinary Morse telegraph. Of course, the saving in time consists in the fact that several operators can be pushing the messages, while one can easily keep up with them in feeding the tape into the machine.

After this it was found necessary to introduce the same system on the portion from Emden to Odessa, and, further, the two sections were capable of being combined into one, so as to send the message without repetition from Emden to Tehran. It was next found necessary to do the same in the remaining section, and finally the same system was extended to Liverpool and Manchester, so that messages are telegraphed direct from these cities to Tehran. The line is thus 4,000 miles long.

While there is no repetition in the ordinary way, it may be remarked that it is not a single continuous line from end to end, but there are ten relay stations, which may be called automatic repeating stations, for batteries at the two ends would be insufficient to carry the message all the way. The principle of the relay is known to all who are acquainted with telegraphy. It acts thus: The line from Emden to Berlin is one wire, with its own battery; that from Berlin to Warsaw is another. The message coming from Emden to Berlin passes round the relay, which is essentially an electromagnet, and in so doing attracts a piece of iron, which causes the circuit in the next section Berlin to Warsaw to be completed, and a current to flow along it. This again, acts by a relay to produce a current in the next section; and so on, so that the current in any section travels along the wire of that section only, and is produced by the batteries in that section.

The Transvaal Constitution.
According to a message from London, dated April 21, the Letters Patent granting a constitution to the Transvaal have been issued. Under this provision is made for the establishment of a House of Assembly whose members shall be re-elected every four years. The Chamber will consist of the Lieutenant-Governor and from six to nine official members and between 30 and 35 elected members. Every burgher of the late Republic who was entitled to vote for the First Volksraad shall have a voice in the election of the present Assembly. Also every white man British subject who for six months prior to the general election shall have occupied a house in the Transvaal having a rental value of £10 per annum, or who shall be in receipt of an income of £10 per annum.

THE RUSSIAN FLEET.

THE FINAL LEAVE-TAKING.

Strong Representations made by France.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Nhatrang, May 17, 10 a.m.

The Russian fleet has not returned to Vanlong Bay since being sighted on Saturday last, when they were ten miles distant from the shore.

They gave out then that they were leaving the coast of Annam for good, but only left after strong representations being made by the French Authorities.

THE DASH NORTHWARDS.

Roshdestvensky about to Move.

It is now surmised that the fleet will now make an attempt to reach Vladivostok, though it cannot be ascertained by what route they will proceed.

I passed Vanlong last night, but saw no signs of the fleet.

CHINA'S NEUTRALITY THREATENED.

Hainan's Harbours Sought.

Nhatrang, May 17, 3.30 p.m.

There is a strong impression prevalent in certain quarters here that the Baltic Fleet is proceeding to Hainan to complete any arrangements that might be necessary for their well-being and efficiency.

Should they do so it is considered probable that they will utilise the eastern coast of Hainan Island.

Six steamers, in appearance like colliers, passed here in a northerly direction yesterday.

FRENCH NEUTRALITY.

No Explanatory Yellow Book to be Issued.

A cable from Paris states that the French Government do not propose to publish a Yellow Book regarding the question of neutrality.

[RUSSIAN SERVICE.]

Discussion Balked.

London, May 16.

It is claimed in St. Petersburg that the Baltic fleet has a perfect right to revisit Hon Koko Bay under the French regulations.

There were several interpellations in the French Chamber yesterday relative to neutrality. M. Rouvier repeated that he had ordered officials in the Far East to observe the strictest neutrality and asked for a postponement of the debate. The interpellations declared that the Government's orders had not been heeded and insisted on an immediate discussion but the Chamber by 445 to 84 agreed to an adjournment.

Departure of Fleet Confirmed.

Saigon wires that the Russians have again left Hon Koko Bay, going northwards, and that no warships have since been seen.

THE FLEET DEPARTS.

SEVENTY-THREE VESSELS LEAVE FOR THE NORTH.

Hospital Ship to Call at Shanghai.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Nhatrang, May 17, 9 p.m.

The Russian fleet, which finally left Vanlong Bay on Sunday, at five o'clock in the morning, consisted of about seventy-five vessels.

Of this number thirty-five were men-of-war of the different classes, the remainder being colliers and transports.

The hospital ship "Orla" is to call in at Shanghai.

THE NEUTRALITY OF INDO-CHINA.

A YELLOW BOOK TO BE ISSUED.

Contraband in Port.

(From the CHINA MAIL Special Correspondent.)

Saigon, May 11.

It appears from a Paris telegram published here yesterday that France is to make an endeavour to show to the world that after all her neutrality has been preserved since 1894, and that any allegations made to the contrary are without foundation and merely the elaborate creation of some fertile imagination. A yellow book is to be published and it is to disclose the precautions taken to prevent any violations of her elastic laws of neutrality. [A telegram from Nhatrang from our special correspondent says this book is not to be issued—E.M.] In this book will be set out the instructions given to the Colonial officials, and the steps taken (3) to obviate any assistance being accorded to the Russian fleet. But of what use are instructions on paper if they are not carried out? As I pointed out in a letter closed yesterday the officials have either walked the quays with their eyes shut or they have deliberately overlooked the truth that has been carried out between here and the Russian base. The French will object to the word base, but that is what their coast certainly is. Steamers go out without secrecy with the avowed intention of visiting the Russians, yet the officials have not interfered beyond a perfunctory examination of papers and perhaps a casual walk over the steamer. I mentioned a case in point, the steamer "Eridan," by which the pilot was conveyed to the fleet's quarters. Since I wrote she has returned, and what have the French officials done? That steamer loaded stores which she set down in the custom's papers as ship's provisions, and cleared for Hongkong in ballast. They know several people know her destination, and the day she sailed last Saturday—a Russian pinnace (as she is called) is steamed down the river and put the pilot and another official on board. Yesterday the ship returned to the river. She had been to the Russians and loaded with stores from the various men-of-war belonging to the fleet, relieved her of her ship's stores. What was her excuse for getting back to this port after three or four days' absence? So far as I can learn the Customs officials have not been told of her return. She could not have reached Hongkong and returned in that time, and she could not plead stress of weather. She might break some machinery, but what about the ship's provisions? And the Russian passenger? The pilot returned. However the "Eridan" is only one of many ships which engage in the trade here, and if the French deny it they speak what is false or they are allowing themselves to be deliberately gulled.

I know of colliers which have left here and gone to the fleet, and as I write there are anchored in the river twenty or thirty colliers and communication ships, and there walk about town and drink at the cafes their respective captains. All waiting orders. They have been doing so for a week or more, and amongst them no less is the "Carlele," that steamer which lost her propeller and drifted down towards Manila, her master declaring that her cargo of ammunition was his property and that he could do what he liked with it. He was subsequently allowed to leave the harbour upon clearing his ship for Portland, Oregon. The Saigon river, as even the greatest dunces will know, is, of course, on the direct route from Manila to Portland, Oregon ("Writ sarranetic.") What do the French authorities say to his remarkable divergence from the route to the Pacific slope, and his queer cargo? That the question of the calling of such ships at neutral ports is a difficult and intricate one to settle must be admitted, and the authorities must in a sense accept papers as showing whether ships are bound, but surely the line can be drawn some where? In Hongkong they have done it with a flow-laden ship and with the "Tungchow." The problem is one which the Hague Conference might find some enlightenment and enjoyment in solving, and when it is satisfactorily settled much suspicion will be removed from powers which happen to be in the unfortunate position in which France is placed to-day.

On the question of the fleet utilising the coast as a base there can be no question. In this port we have had a hospital ship anchored for the past three or four days, and until quite recently the Russian fleet laid in Vanlong Bay for several days on end. And they are only now changing their spots like the old leopard of fiddle fame because surely has repented the concern with which the French here regarded the continued utilisation of their waters. They have, of course, sent men-of-war to patrol the coast, but the effect has only been to alter the time of duration of stay in any one inlet.

I have on the best authority that the fleet stays, say, in Vanlong Bay the time allowed a belligerent by international law—and sometimes a little longer—and then moves on to any other inlet close by, keeping up such a practice continually. This idea of evading the law has only been in vogue during the past week, but it will probably appeal to common-sense people as a rather silly threat upon which to justify justification. The territory in which the Russians anchor is French, and if the fleet temporarily puts out to sea every other day and then returns into territorial waters surely that does not absolve France from blame for entertaining them. If so the fleet might work its way thus round the whole coast of China, and the onus of blame for attacking in neutral waters would rest upon the Japanese.

When viewed in the light of possible conflict the practice now being allowed seems to be the demands of International Law. It would be far better for France if she stoutly insisted upon the Russians keeping entirely without her territorial waters, and that is what she can surely do unless she goes the whole hog, "lets justice be done though the heavens fall," and breaks off her alliance with Russia. It must be admitted that she is in a terribly unhappy predicament, but if she does not courageously meet it and keep her friends out of armed force if necessary she will be the means of bringing the Japanese wrath down upon her, and so involving Great Britain and the rest of Europe in trouble. The possibility of such a contingency is disquieting in the extreme.

What France must insist upon is the Russian fleet leaving the Annam shores, and that is apparently what they do not feel disposed to do. They have much coal to load for the long sea voyage to Vladivostok, and much preparation to make for battle, and in addition, they must wait until the fourth fleet is within workable distance or else it will be of no use to them. It is extremely difficult to secure any idea as to when the fleet will move. It is assumed in some quarters that it must clear out within a few days, whilst in others it is believed that it will dawdle about and waste time.

France has the alternative of preventing ships leaving port and delivering supplies to the fleet, thereby compelling it to leave, or facing the charges of violating International Law, and the consequences thereof, with resignation. Which will she do?

RUMOURS AT AMOY.

The 'Capture' of Kelung?

(From Our Correspondent.)

Amoy, May 16.

There are all kinds of rumours floating down respecting the Baltic Fleet. One day it is confidently affirmed that Kelung has been bombarded, and though it is not known whether it has been captured or not, there is no question but that there has been an engagement of a very serious character, and that the Japanese never came to the best out of it. To-day the Chinese are most seriously excited by positive information that has been conveyed by some unknown person that the whole fleet is shortly to rendezvous off Amoy. It will be good for the peace of the region when something definite has been done by either the Japanese or the Russians. The latter are much damaging their reputation by their continued refusal to advance and meet their foe.

A Contraband Carrier.

The "Heathbank" has at last left the quiet harbour of Amoy. Whatever fear she may have had of the Japanese in the outer waters she did not show it as she steamed slowly out of the narrow passage that leads to the bay beyond. Her whistle, a deep and ponderous one and its hoarse sound raised echoes from the neighbouring hills that resounded as pleasant foreboding to her on the risky journey she was about to undertake.

EMIGRATION FROM AMOY.

(From Our Correspondent.)

Amoy, May 16.

The rumours of war and the whereabouts of the Baltic Fleet although they have a disquieting effect on trade do not seem to affect the general life of the Chinese. That there are so many Russian battleships lying on their course to Saigon does not seem to affect the tide of emigration to the Straits. Large passenger ships come and go with great regularity, and they seem to want for passengers. The "Wai-ho" and the "Charthouse" are here now, and as one walks the narrow streets of Amoy, one can see groups of men waiting with the stolid patience of the Chinese for the sailing of these ships. They mostly come from the interior, and nearly every man of them is a farmer. They are all poor-looking and seem to have unbounded faith that the streets of Singapore, Penang and Bangkok, for which they have taken tickets, are paved with gold, and that as they long they will return with the fortunes they have picked up, and build up the old ruined home and redeem the ancestral lands that in their poverty they have been compelled to mortgage but which they eagerly sell outright. A good sprinkling of the poorly-dressed crowd are opium smokers and men of no character that dream of fortune and good luck and pleasant times in the places to which they are going. It is pathetic to think that large numbers of those who are leaving China with such hopes will never see their country again and their friends here will look in vain for their return.

SUPREME COURT.

IN CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

(Before His Lordship Sir Henry Belding, Chief Justice.)

Thursday, May 18.

ARMED ROBBERY.

The monthly criminal sessions were opened at the Supreme Court this morning. The Hon. Mr. E. H. Ship appeared to prosecute.

There was only one case set down for hearing in which the prisoners were Kwok Ching, "Kung Shui" and Li Man Fu, charged with assault and robbery by violence at Lantau Island in the New Territories, and prisoners each pleaded guilty and asked that instead of being imprisoned they should be banished.

His Lordship addressing the prisoners said they did not appear to appreciate the seriousness of the charge which they had entered a plea of guilty. It was not a light offence to enter a house, equipped by a widow and her family, in the middle of the night, and ill-treat and ill-use them until one of the children died the place where the woman had her money put away. They had stolen a sum of $100, leaving the poor woman without any money, and at the same time took a quantity of clothing and some jewellery. It would be well that such characters should be banished from the Colony, and perhaps later on their wish in that direction would be complied with. At the same time they must learn, and others through them, that crime could not be committed with impunity. They, therefore, would be subjected to severe punishment, although the fact that they had pleaded guilty would be taken into consideration. The usual sentence for such an offence was five years imprisonment with 24 strokes of the birch. The public must be protected from men of their character and people must be able to feel that they could sleep in safety in their own houses. The prisoners would each be sentenced to five years imprisonment and 24 strokes of the birch during the first six months of that term.

WILLIAM POWELL, LIMITED.

Increase of Capital.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of Messrs William Powell, Limited, was held in the Company's premises, Alexandra Buildings, at noon to-day.

Mr. W. H. Gaskell was in the chair and there were present: Messrs G. Murray Bain, J. W. C. Bonnar, G. H. Potts, Thos. Arnold, G. C. Moxor, A. G. Stokes, H. Ayre, Ho Fook, Lo Cheung Shui, and Mr. E. A. Mountford Williams (Secretary).

After the notice convening the meeting had been read.

The Chairman, said:—Gentlemen, we have convened this meeting for the purpose of obtaining your sanction to an increase of capital. We find this day approaching on account of continued increase in business and the consequent heavy stock of goods we must necessarily carry to meet the same. The present financial position of the Company is very satisfactory, our takings for the ten months to April 30th, showing an increase of some 23 per cent compared with those of the corresponding period of last year. In regard to increase of capital I would like to say that it is the intention of the Directors to make increases from time to time, as the growth of the business may warrant. We think it essential to maintain a steady dividend, on a moderate capital and to add annually to the Equalisation of Dividend Fund.

With these few remarks I beg to propose the first resolution, viz.—

"That the Capital of the Company be increased from $12,000 to $14,000 by the creation of 2,000 New Shares of $10.00 each."

Mr. G. Murray Bain seconded and the motion was carried.

Mr. Gaskell proposed the second resolution, viz.—

"That such new shares be offered to those persons who are registered as Shareholders of the Company on the First day of July, 1905, in the proportion of one New Share for every complete Five Shares held by them on the First day of July, 1905."

Mr. T. Arnold seconded and it was carried.

Mr. Gaskell proposed the third resolution, viz.—

"That the Amount due for the New Shares be called up on the Fourth of August, 1905, and that the New Shares be issued on the 15th of September, 1905, and that the Original shares from July 1st, 1905."

Mr. A. G. Stokes seconded and this, also, was carried.

Before voting the meeting the Chairman announced his willingness to answer any questions relating to the matter before the meeting upon which.

Mr. G. Murray Bain asked—Are all the shareholders within easy call within the Colony?

Mr. Gaskell—No difficulty will be experienced in getting to all shareholders, those who are away we have already written to, asking them to arrange with their bankers or agents here if they desire to take up any of the new shares.

Mr. Arnold—Will the shares be kept for them?

Mr. Gaskell—Yes.

The Chairman then announced that a preliminary meeting would be held at which duplicate would be given to shareholders. The meeting then concluded.

The London and China Express says that a report which has gained credence at Hongkong is that Mr. S. Silverstone, assistant secretary of the Occidental and Oriental S.S. Co. is to be general agent at Hongkong for the Pacific Mail, Occidental and Oriental, and Toyoko Kisen Kaisha Steamship Companies, succeeding Mr. E. W. Tilden, who is to be transferred. For nearly thirty years he has been continuously with the Occidental and Oriental Company, when the steamers in service were the "Oceanic" and the old "Gaelic" and "Belgic" for the Occidental Company and the "Peking," "Tokyo," and side-wheel steamers "China" and "Alaska" for the Pacific Mail Line. As general agent at Hongkong he will have a great fleet of modern liners to look after.—We (CHINA MAIL) have not heard to what position Mr. E. W. Tilden is to be transferred.

The new turbine steamer "Virginia," built by Messrs. A. Stephen & Sons, Glasgow, for the Allan Line, ran her trial trip on the Clyde, attaining a speed of 19 knots with the tide. Her guaranteed speed was seventeen knots. There was practically no vibration. The new turbine steamer for the Dover-Ostend service was launched at the Cockhill yards, Hoboken, on April 6, in the presence of Prince and Princess Albert of Belgium. The steamer, which was christened the "Princesse Elizabeth," will be the fastest (twenty-three knots) and largest vessel on the Channel service. Another turbine steamer, somewhat similar to the "Brighton," is under construction at Govan, near Glasgow, for the London and Brighton and Western of Europe Railway Company. She will be called "Dunfermline." Her dimensions are 97 ft. in length, 24 ft. beam measurement, and 14 ft. in depth.

Quick Silk Delivery.

The silk s.s. R.M.S. "Empress of India," which left Hongkong on the 18th April, and Yokohama on the 28th April, a rived in New York on the 16th May, thus making a transit of 8 days from Yokohama and 27 days from Hongkong.
